II.—INTRODUCTORY.

The main object of the present pamphlet is to give a brief account of the University of Dacca. The University was opened on July 1st, 1921. The entries in the Admission Register in 1921 were 877 besides 67 students of the Dacca Training College and 154 students of the Dacca Medical School who studied Chemistry and Physics in the University. The entries in 1930 were 1141 including 20 Research Students and excluding 81 students of the Dacca Teachers' Training College and 95 students of the Dacca Medical School who study Chemistry and Physics in the University,

TOTAL COST OF LIVING.

The actual cost of living in a Hall in Dacca University may be regarded as, say, 10 or 12 rupees for food in addition to class-fee and seat-rent. The seat-rent varies from Rs. 2 to Rs. 4; this charge includes the cost of light, water, medical attendance, medicine and servants. An undergraduate student can live in a Hall and pay for his class fees with a total sum of Rs. 20 to Rs. 22 monthly. Dacca is, therefore, not an expensive University for the students.

ADVANTAGES OF THE UNIVERSITY—ENTRANCE TEST—TUTORIAL SYSTEM.

The material advantages that may be claimed for the University may be set forth under these heads: reasonable cost, a healthy climate, excellent hostel accommodation, splendid playing-fields, provision for games, students' societies of all kinds, and careful medical attendance and supervision. Students may consult the Medical Officer daily at the University Dispensary. Serious cases of illness are attended to in the Halls.

The educational advantage of the University may be summarised by saying that the University is striving to realise the ideals set forth by the Calcutta University Commission,

The entrance test is (as recommended by the Commission) the Intermediate Examination of previously existing Indian Universities or its equivalent, so that the University teachers are not burdened with what is really school work ; and hence, it is possible to bring all the students into contact with men who have not only taken a good degree but have contributed and are contributing by personal work to the advancement of their subject.

In other ways the University has made a new departure. There is a 'tutorial system' under the direction of the Heads of Departments for all students. The tutorial instruction is designed to counteract the inevitable evils of the examination system. Examination tends to discourage originality. The tutorial system is intended to encourage originality and individual effort, to ensure that each student shall acquire something of the habit of intellectual production as well as of reproduction, so that when he enters the world he will not for the first time find himself confronted with intellectual problems to which he has not been taught the method of answering beforehand.

III.—GENERAL ORGANISATION OF THE UNIVERSITY.

The University, constituted in accordance with the Dacca University Act of 1920, has been planned approximately on the model of the modern British Universities. The Governor of Bengal is the Chancellor and there is a Vice-Chancellor who is the academic and executive head of the University. The important authorities of the University are the following: the Court, the Executive Council, the Academic Council and the Faculties.

The Court is a large body of ex-officio, elected and nominated members, at present 166 in number. The Chancellor is required in nominating members to ensure that so far as possible half the non-European members shall be Muhammadans. The Court makes new statutes on the recommendation of other University bodies and may cancel new Ordinances made by the Executive Council. It also has the power of reviewing and passing resolutions on the annual budget and report.

The Executive Council is the chief executive body and consists at present of 19 persons, viz; the Vice-Chancellor, the Treasurer, the Commissioner of the Dacca Division, the Provosts, the Deans of the Faculties, three Non-Muhammadan and three Muhammadan representatives of the Court and four persons (including two teachers) appointed by the Chancellor. The Council as constituted at present comprises 2 Europeans, 8 Hindus and 9 Muhammadans.

The Academic Council is the chief academic body. It includes the Vice-Chancellor as Chairman, the Deans, the Provosts, the Professors and the Heads of Departments, the Librarian and a certain number of Readers and Lecturers. The total number at present is 22.

There are at present three Faculties—a Faculty of Arts with 30 members, a Faculty of Science with 24 members and a Faculty of Law with 15 members.

For reports on special subjects the Faculties constitute Committees of Courses and Studies.

The above paragraphs are merely intended to give a general account of the University organization, for precise details of which reference must be made to the University Act and Statutes.

IV.—RESIDENTIAL AND TUTORIAL ORGANIZATION.

In accordance with the recommendations of the Calcutta University Commission, the teaching staff is organized as a whole but the students are either resident in or attached to separate Halls—the Dacca Hall, the Salimullah Muslim Hall and the Jagannath Hall—each being under the headship of a Provost. The Provost of the Hall is assisted by house-tutors; and certain members of the teaching staff are attached to each Hall for social purposes.

Students who do not reside in a Hall are only allowed to live with parents or legal guardians or specially approved guardians.

Resident women students are accommodated in the Women's Residence which is an annexe of the Dacca Hall.

The games and students' societies have been organised in connection with the Halls, and each Hall has its own playing fields.

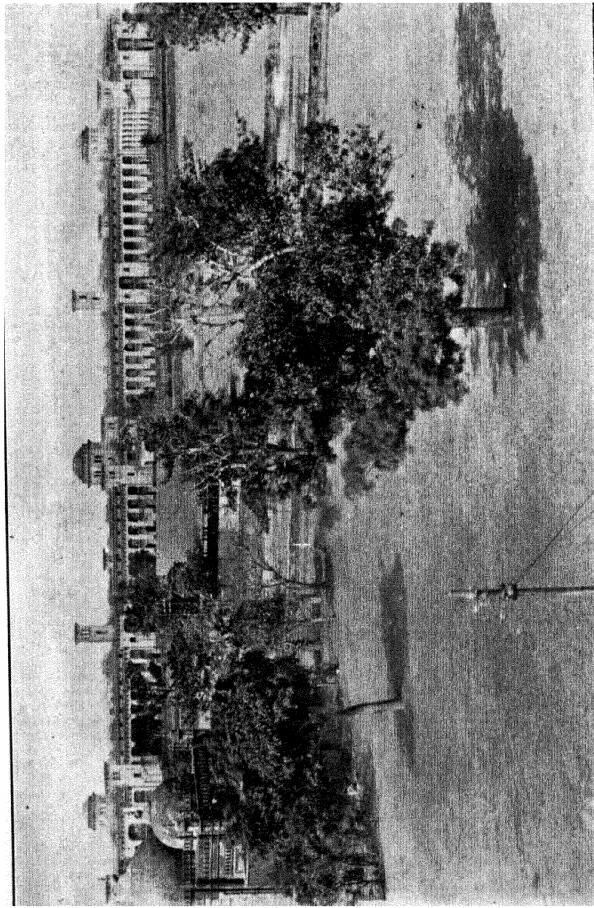

Every student not resident in a Hall must be attached to one. It is undoubtedly in many ways of great advantage both for work and for games for a student to be resident in a Hall.

Rules relating to residence of students and discipline in the Halls will be supplied to students at the time of their admission.

V.—SITE AND BUILDINGS.

The University occupies nearly a square mile of park-land of irregular shape lying to the north-west of the town of Dacca and partly surrounding the public park of Ramna.* The site is not enclosed, but is intersected by public roads lit by electricity. This area was acquired for the former Government of Eastern Bengal and Assam of which Dacca was the capital; and on it had already been built the Secretariat, Government House, the Government Press and a number of houses for officers when in 1912 the Province came to an end by the re-partition of the former provinces of Bengal, Assam, Bihar and Orissa.

* The Absanullah School of Engineering, which is at present unconnected with the University, is included in this area. This Institution is housed in the building erected for the Press of the Eastern Bengal and Assam Government and to it are attached residences and sixty bighas of land for workshops, hostels and playing fields

Dacca University—Central Buildings.

UNIVERSITY CENTRAL BUILDING.

The former Secretariat has been converted into the University Central Building. It lies about the middle of the southern boundary of the University area and is so situated as to be at no great distance from any of the existing and projected residences for students. It is a two storied building, 650 feet long, facing south-west, with two transepts of about half this length at either end and a central extension to the north-east at right angles to the longitudinal axis. The total area of the rooms (about 200 in number) is 94,000 square feet. Every room has a verandah and there are passages throughout the building, giving access to the rooms from the inside. The ventilation is excellent. The distance between the central passage and the verandah is uniform throughout the building.

The whole of the upper floor of the Central Building had hitherto been used temporarily for the accommodation of the students of the Muslim Hall (see below).

The remainder of the building contains the University offices in the N. W. transept, the library partly in the S. E. transept and partly along the main corridor, the lecture rooms and class rooms for the Faculties of Arts and Law, rooms for members of the staff and common rooms for the students. The departments accommodated are English, Philosophy, History, Sanskrit and Bengali, Persian and Urdu, Arabic and Islamic Studies, Economics and Politics, Mathematics, Commerce and Law.

DACCA HALL.

Provost ... Profesor J. C. Ghosh, D Sc.
House Tutor ... Mr. Charu Bandyopadhyay, M. A.
Mr. N. C. Pal, M. A., B. L.

Superintendent of Women's Residence—Mrs. S. Ray, M. A., M. Ed.

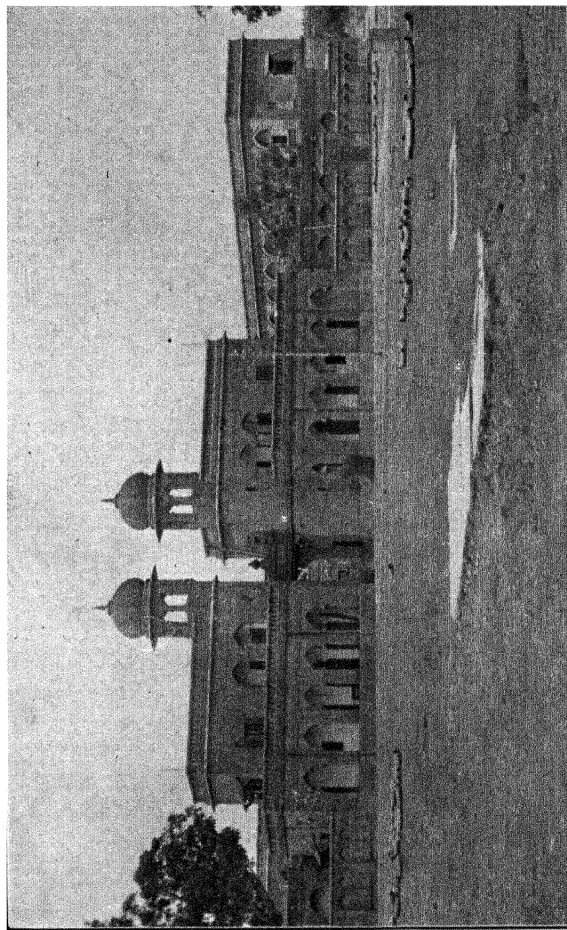

The Hall is a two-storied building of red brick and is arranged in the form of a quadrangle, 225 feet by 194 feet. It accommodates about 160 students and contains houses for the two House Tutors on either side of the main gate. All the rooms are well lighted and ventilated.

In November 1926 a residence for women students was opened. It is now located in a fine house adjacent to the main University Buildings and has been generously furnished for residential purposes.

The tutorial work for resident and attached students of the Hall is under the direction of the Heads of the Departments.

The Curzon Hall is used as the Assembly Hall for the students and a new building, the Lytton Hall, has been erected to accommodate the Library, Common Room and Provost's Office.

The corporate activities of the students centre round the Students' Union of which the executive authority is vested in a Council of 16 members with the Provost as Ex-officio President, and the following student Office-bearers :—(1) Prime Minister (2) General Secretary, (3) Secretry, Social Service League (4) Secretary, Common Room (5) Secretary, Dramatic Club and (6) Secretary, Athletic Club.

Dacca University—Dacca Hall.

The Students' Union exercises direct control over the Common Room, the Literary and Debating Societies, the Social Service League, Games and Athletics. The Common Room is well furnished with English and Bengali papers and periodicals as well as with indoor games. The Hall Library is designed for the mental recreation of students and for increasing their general information. It contains over 2,500 volumes and a fair proportion of these are either English or Bengali works of fiction. A selection of recent publication on Modern World movements has also been added to the Library.

The Hall Magazine "Satadal" published every year in Bengali has always maintained a high standard.

The Union holds debates almost once every fortnight, and also organises frequent musical gatherings and addresses by distinguished persons.

A large number of prizes are awarded every year to the students of the Hall for proficiency in debates, essay writing, recitation, mess-management, athletics, etc.

The Athletic Secretary organises the following games: Foot-ball, Cricket, Hockey, Tennis, Volley Ball and various indoor games. The Dacca Hall has a well deserved reputation for athletics.

A Swimming Club has been organised recently with the aid of a grant from the University and a Swimming Competition is regularly held.

The Social Service League conducts two Night Schools, having about 90 students on the rolls. Nursing, Night duty, Training classes for First aid and Lantern lectures in the slum area of the town are the special features of the League.

A Social Gathering is held every year to bid farewell to the old students. The Dacca College and Dacca Hall Old Boys' Association also meets in the Hall once every year. The Presidential speech is followed by a Dinner in the Hall Quadrangle where arrangements are made for 800 guests.

There are generally three Dramatic Performances held every year—one at the Installation of the New Council, one before the Puja holidays and one in connection with the Old Boys' Gathering.

A sum of Rs. 3,200 has been placed at the disposal of the Provost of the Dacca Hall for distribution as scholarships and stipends.

SALIMULLAH MUSLIM HALL.

Provost—Mr. M. Hasan, M. A., B. L. (Cal.),
B. A. (Oxon), M. R. S. L. (Lond.), Bar-at-Law.
House Tutors—Dr. Md. Shahidullah M. A., B. L. (Cal.)
D. Litt. (Paris).

Mr. Momtuzuddin Ahmad, M. A.

The Hall has hitherto been housed in the upper story of the main University Buildings which contains about 100 rooms for residence; besides a fine Dining Hall, a Prayer Room, a Library and a Common Room.

The two House Tutors live in quarters adjacent to the Hall. One of the House Tutors is in charge of the theological instruction given to students of the Hall; every Friday regular lectures are delivered by Tutors of the Hall on subjects connected with Islamic Culture. Koran classes are held every evening during term.

A permanent Pesh Imam (a quari and Hafiz-i-quran) has been appointed to lead Tarawih prayers during Ramzan and the five daily prayers. He makes all arrangements for prayers, etc. in the Hall under the supervision of the Tutor in charge of theology, Dr. Md. Shahidullah.

The tutorial work of pass and honours students is organized by the Heads of Departments concerned and each student is assigned to a tutor. The Provost is responsible for taking action on individual students after receiving the tutorial records for those students from the teachers concerned.

The Hall Union is the centre of the corporate life of the students. It is managed by a committee consisting of a Vice-President, a Secretary and a Select Committee of seven, all students, elected by the general body of students ; and the Provost acts as President. It holds debates every week during term and controls the Common Room together with the Reading Room as also the indoor games. It organises entertainments and holds meetings, at which distinguished persons are invited to lecture on subjects of general interest.

A Social Service Section has been organised under the auspices of the Hall Union. The Secretary of the Section organises evening classes for imparting literary and technical instruction to the boys from poor homes of the town. Some workers of this section have been trained in weaving carpets, tapes, etc. under an expert from Sri Niketan.

The Union has also opened a literary section. The section also publishes a Magazine called "Muslim Hall Magazine."

The playing fields are adjacent to the Hall and the tennis courts are within the compound of the Hall. There are two Football and Hockey grounds and a Cricket Pitch. Splendid opportunities for games are provided and the athletic club is managed by a representative committee of students and the Tutors of the Hall.

The Hall has been provided with a very magnificent Dining Hall. All students dine together at the same time and the Officers and Tutors of the Hall dine occasionally with the students. The Dining Hall is managed by representative committees of students and Tutors.

Muhammadian students have very quickly taken advantage of the opportunities and facilities provided by the Muslim Hall ; the number of students has increased considerably. The New Muslim Hall, which is a magnificent building, has been completed. It is hoped that students will occupy it early next session.

Many scholarships and stipends are reserved for Muslim students.

The residence of the Provost adjoins the New Muslim Hall.

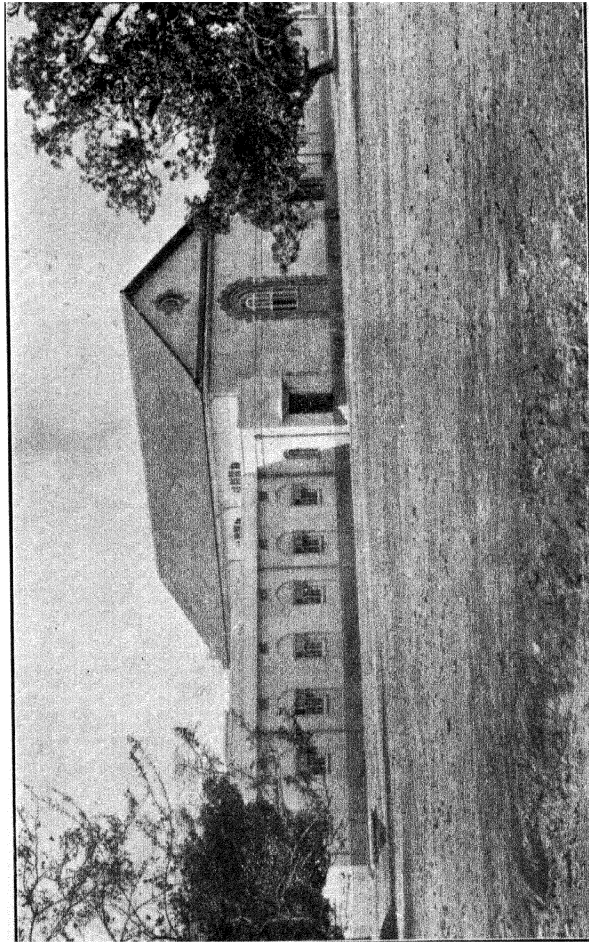

JAGANNATH HALL.

for 100 students each, with kitchens and other out-houses and residences for the Provost and one House-tutor. The Central Building contains an Assembly Hall $71\frac{1}{2}$ feet by 50 feet to seat 500 to 600 persons, a Common Room, 48 feet by 30 feet, a Library and Office, 20 feet by 30 feet, 10 Tuition Rooms, each 19 feet by $10\frac{1}{2}$ feet, two big rooms, 30 feet by 20 feet, and one sitting room for the Provost. The Houses for students are two-storied buildings designed in the shape of an E ; each is 209 feet by 72 feet. Each student has a cubicle, 10 feet by 8 feet, and there is a common room and a sick room in each House.

The entire social life of the Hall is controlled by the Hall Union Committee consisting mostly of the members elected by the students themselves.

The most outstanding event of this session is the first annual meeting of the Jagannath College and Jagannath Hall Re-Union, comprising as constituent members, the teachers and students of the Jagannath Hall and the old Jagannath College. The meeting was held in the Central Hall on the 22nd February, 1931 with Mr G. C. Nag, an old boy of the Jagannath College, as President. The meeting was followed by a dinner held in a decorated pandal where arrangements were made for 600 persons.

There are splendid opportunities for games in the Hall. The Cricket pitch, 2 football and hockey grounds and three tennis courts are all provided within the compound of the Hall and there is room for more play-grounds to be provided if required. The Athletic Club of the Hall provides the following games ; cricket, football, basket ball, volley ball, hockey, tennis and badminton. The Club is managed by a representative Committee of students with a Secretary.

The Hall has a Literary Union which holds debates and occasional meetings at which papers are read by the students and sometimes by teachers and distinguished visitors. It also publishes an annual magazine called "Basantika" and holds annual competition in recitation and speech among the students of this Hall.

There is a Dramatic Union in the Hall with a Secretary.

The Common Room of the Hall is managed by a Students' Committee with a Secretary. This Common Room provides a good selection of papers, magazines and also indoor games.

The Hall Library has now been equipped with a fairly large representative collection of books for leisure reading and includes many important works in English, Bengali and continental literature, besides a number of popular works on Science, History, Philosophy, Religion, Economics, Politics, Social Service, etc. The total number of books in the Library is about 2550, the total issue of books during current year amounting to about 2000. Nearly Rs. 400/- have been spent this year in purchasing books for the Hall Library.

The Social Service League of this Hall gives the students a training in Social Service work. It is at present running two free night schools and a day school, one of these being situated at Kazirbagh, about 3 miles from the Hall. The League has undertaken an experiment in social work of first-rate importance at Kazirbagh. Young men interested in the organization of village life in Bengal will find ample scope for training and practical experience in this work.

The Secretaries and committees of the various sections are responsible to the general body of students, whom they have to meet in meetings of Literary Union where the conduct of these bodies can be discussed.

Special facilities are given to the students of the backward classes. 20 rent-free seats are reserved for them.

A sum of Rs. 3200/- is annually placed at the disposal of the Provost of the Hall for awarding scholarships and stipends to students of this Hall. Two scholarships of Rs. 15 and two of Rs. 10/- a month will be awarded to the four best students on the result of a competitive examination among those who take their admission to the Hall. The remaining amount will be distributed as stipends to the students of this Hall. An additional sum of Rs. 600/- is provided for stipends reserved for the students of the backward classes in the University, most of whom as a rule live in or are attached to the Jagannath Hall.

Two special stipends of Rs 8/- a month awarded by the Hon'ble Raja Sir Manmathanath Roy Chaudhuri of Santosh are reserved for two students of this Hall. A prize of the value of Rs. 25/- has been offered by Mr. Bhupendra Kumar Adhikari, M. A., an ex-student of this Hall, to be awarded every year to that student of the Hall who has contributed most to the development of corporate life in the Hall. Mr. K. Sahabuddin, the Treasurer of the University, has offered a stipend of Rs. 10/- per month to a student of this Hall.

THE CURZON HALL (CONVOCATION HALL) AND PHYSICAL LABORATORIES.

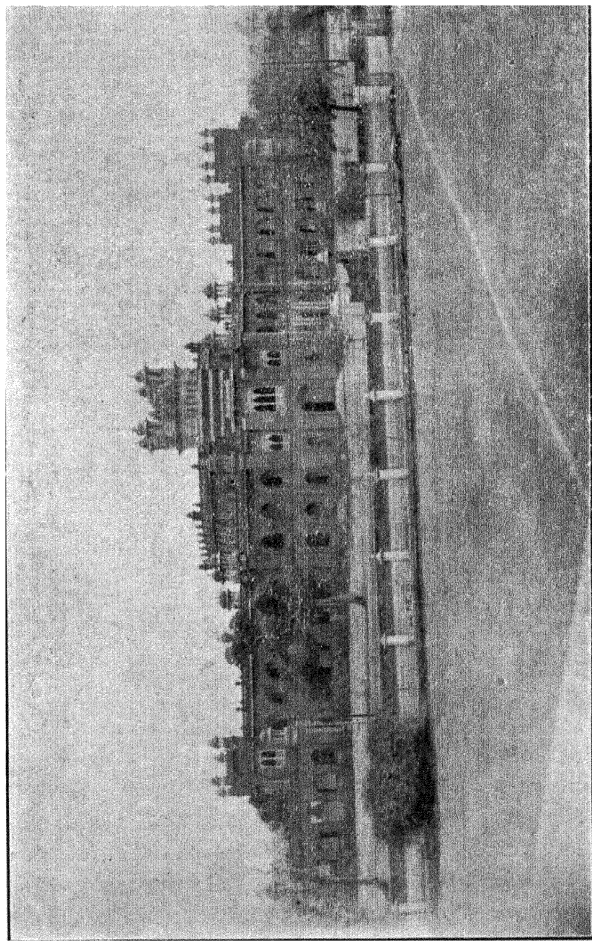

The main block of the old Dacca College includes the Curzon Hall, the Physical Laboratories and the Science Library. It is a fine two-storied building in red brick constructed in Saracenic style, 322 feet long and 109 feet in depth. The Curzon Hall which was the Assembly Hall of Dacca College and is in the middle of the building, is used as the Convocation Hall and for public lectures and ceremonies. It is a beautiful hall, 110 feet by 60 feet, in the Saracenic style with two galleries. The greater part of the remainder of the building has been converted into the Physics Laboratory of the University.

THE CHEMISTRY BUILDINGS.

The Chemistry Department is housed in two red brick buildings on the same alignment as the Curzon Hall and Physics Laboratories. The University Teachers' Club is also housed in one of these buildings. For further details see section VIII.

UNIVERSITY ATHLETIC CLUB.

In addition to the Hall Athletic Clubs, there is a University Athletic Club which conducts the athletic sports of the University, arranges for Inter-Hall competitions, and co-ordinates the Athletics of the various Halls. The University teams in cricket, football and hockey are formed by selection from the Halls, and members of the University staff also play for the University.

Dacca University—Curzon Hall and Physics Laboratory.

The club is managed by a representative committee of students from all the Halls with a President, two Vice-Presidents and one Treasurer from the staff with a student as General Secretary. The office of the General Secretary of the Athletic Club shall be held, successively by students of the three Halls in rotation.

The standing committee consists of the Vice-Chancellor and the three Provosts.

THE GYMNASIUM

The Gymnasium is a tile-roofed building, about 68½ feet by 48 feet, with a cemented floor, and corrugated iron walls of about eight feet in height, so constructed as to allow free circulation of air both above and below the walls, and is fitted with electric light. It is situated in the University Athletic Ground. The Gymnasium is now fully equipped with the latest apparatus for Physical drill. Boxing is taught by the Physical Instructor, and students are coached for the various games and for athletic sports. When the various improvements under contemplation will be carried out the Gymnasium will be one of the best equipped in Bengal.

PLAYING FIELDS.

Each Hall is provided with an athletic ground suitable for football, cricket, and hockey ; and also with tennis courts. The athletic ground of the Dacca Hall is used by the University Athletic Club and contains a good cricket pitch. It is sufficiently extensive to provide two football grounds.

RESIDENCES.

There are on the University site a number of houses built originally for the accommodation of officers of the now defunct Eastern Bengal and Assam Government, most of which have been made available for the University. Practically all of these residences are now occupied by senior members of the teaching and administrative staff.

VI—THE LIBRARIES.

The nucleus of the present main Library consists of collections of 18,000 books from the Library of the Dacca College, and of 1600 from the Dacca Law College, both carefully chosen. The total number of books in the Library is about 60,000. The total estimated expenditure on the additions since the foundation of the University is about Rs. 3,05,000. The number of scientific and learned periodicals, an essential feature of a University Library, has been very largely increased, and in all cases the University is aiming at completing the series of back numbers. Two cataloguers are constantly engaged in the work of making a scientific card catalogue and a typed catalogue according to the "Sheaf system". The Library contains a valuable collection of Sanskrit, Bengali, Arabic and Persian Manuscripts numbering above 17,000.

Each department of study has its own library for the use of Honours and M. A. students. The books in these Departmental Libraries form part of the University Library and are included in the catalogues. They consist mainly of the advanced text-books in the subjects of the departments and standard works which all students should study but which are too expensive for them to buy. There is a Poor Students' Section of the General Library which is open for the use of poor students, under special regulations.

A special room in the Physics Laboratory, about 50 feet long and 36 feet broad, has been fitted up as a Science Library and Reading Room. The Library is specially well-equipped with current periodicals which are at the disposal of the workers in the Physics and Chemistry Laboratories.

The Library is open from 7-30 A. M. to 4-30 P. M. each day in term time. Teachers, officers, students, registered graduates, and in exceptional cases other persons, may use the University Library. Each Hall is provided with a special library for its own students.

VII.—THE PHYSICAL LABORATORIES.

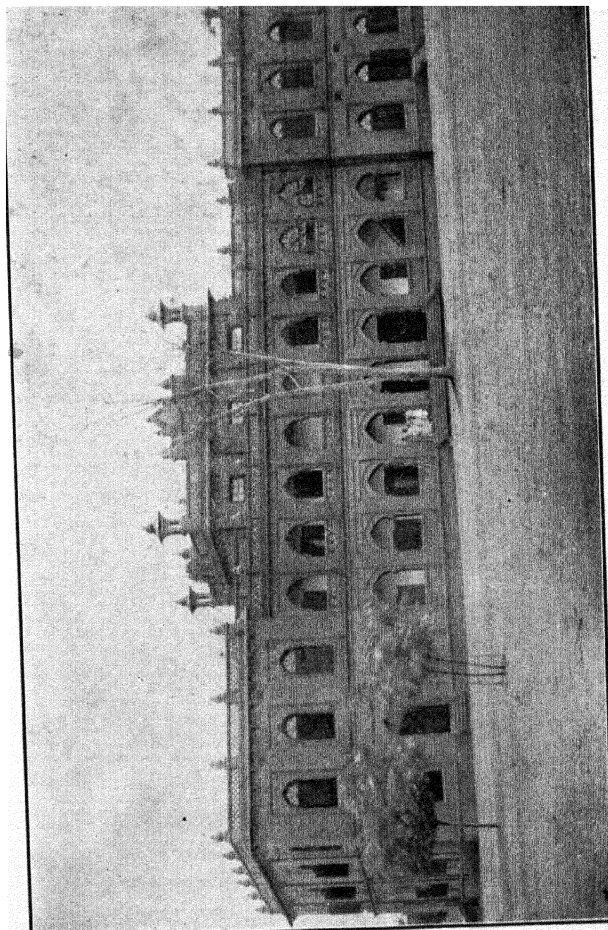

The Physics Department of the University is accommodated in the buildings which formerly belonged to the Dacca College. Alterations have been made in order to fit them for the peculiar needs of a Physical Laboratory with the result that at present the University has a well-equipped and large building suited both for elementary and advanced work. The rooms have a total area of 13500 square feet, excluding verandahs and passages. All the elementary work is done in six rooms in the eastern part of the buildings on the ground floor and the advanced work in western half of the building. Sixty elementary students can be accommodated at the same time. In the part of the building where the advanced work is done the system of a large number of small rooms has been adopted so as to allow the students doing research work having as much privacy as possible. The laboratory is well stocked with apparatus for both elementary and advanced work and is probably as well equipped as any Physics laboratory in India. Every room has gas and water supply and electric fittings and on the advanced side of the laboratory each room is fitted with a high pressure current supply in addition to the normal supply from the main. This high-pressure current is generated either in the motor house attached to the laboratory or, when steady voltage is required, from large-capacity storage cells kept in a separate room.

Provision has been made for an elementary instruction in wireless.

A metal workshop and a wood workshop have been equipped. A special mechanic and an assistant are engaged to avoid the expense and the loss of time involved in sending apparatus to Europe for repair. A glass-blower is also engaged to do the necessary glass-blowing work for both the Chemistry and the Physics department and, in addition, to give instruction, when required, to students.

The Science Library, at first accommodated in one of the rooms on the ground floor of the eastern wing not sufficiently large for the somewhat extensive literature which is in process of being collected, was removed to a room on the first floor adapted for the purpose. All the more important periodicals, French, German and English, are taken and both students and staff have thus opportunities of keeping in touch with the most recent developments of the subject.

VIII.—THE CHEMICAL LABORATORIES.

The Chemistry department of the University is located in a separate two-storied red brick building, 153 feet by 63 feet, with extension to an adjoining building. The total floor space of the building is 13,000 square feet. There are two lecture-rooms on the first floor, one accommodating 100 students, the other for smaller classes; and there are 21 other rooms and laboratories for Physical, Inorganic, Organic and Analytical Chemistry, including a number of rooms specially intended for research work. The laboratory is provided with an up-to-date equipment. Ample facilities are provided for laboratory work up to the M. Sc. standard in Physical, Organic and Inorganic Chemistry. M. Sc. students are encouraged, if they are found capable, to submit a dissertation in lieu of a part of the Examination for the M. Sc. degree.

The B. Sc. Honours School of Chemistry comprises a three years' course of work in Physical, Inorganic, Organic and Analytical Chemistry. Special arrangements have been made to give the students a thorough training in commercial analytical methods, so that students after receiving their B. Sc. degree may start analytical laboratories of their own, or may be readily absorbed in the various industrial concerns now springing up all over India. Provision is also being made for instruction in electro-chemistry, including electro-plating.

A precision workshop and a glass-blower's shop are attached to the Chemical and Physical laboratories and senior students are expected to learn the art of glass-blowing. It is hoped in the near future to introduce a course in Chemical Engineering as a part of the Honours B. Sc. degree.

The laboratories in this building provide normal accommodation for 80 Honours B. Sc. students and 25 M. Sc. and Research students. The Pass B. Sc. classes have been removed from the beginning of the session 1927-1928 to the old Intermediate College building, which has been fitted up to accommodate 120 Pass B. Sc. students.

A research Laboratory for Agricultural Chemistry has been opened from July, 1930 for studying the problems of soil analysis and nutrition of rice plants.

IX—THE PSYCHOLOGICAL LABORATORY.

The Psychological Laboratory is equipped with up-to-date instruments and forms part of the Philosophy Department of the University. B. A. Honours students have to pass a practical examination in Psychology in order to qualify for the degree. M. A. students taking up Psychology as an optional subject are allowed to carry on practical work themselves while demonstration classes are held for Ordinary B. A.

students. A small Library is attached to the Laboratory and most of the important periodicals on Psychology are available to the students in connection with the advanced study of the subject.

XV.—UNIVERSITY STUDENTS' UNION.

As distinguished from the Hall Union the membership of which is limited to students of the respective Halls, the University Students' Union embraces all the students of the University and also those members of the staff who pay a certain minimum annual subscription. For the students the membership is compulsory and they have to pay only Re. 1/8 per head per year.

The purpose of the Union is to encourage corporate activities among the students as members of the University and then to bring the Halls closer together as component units of the larger whole of the University and also to bring together the whole staff and students on the common platform of social life. With this end in view, the Union organises debates, lectures and other meetings and maintains three common rooms with numerous newspapers and periodicals and also arrangements for in-door games. Occasional social gatherings also are within its purview. The union also publishes an annual Journal.

The affairs of the Union are managed by an Executive Committee consisting of three student representatives and one teacher from each Hall, one teacher nominated by the Vice-Chancellor and a president (as a rule, a teacher) elected by the committee as above constituted. The Committee also elects a Vice-President and a Secretary from among its own student members, and the Secretary nominates three Assistant Secretaries, one from each Hall, who, however, are not members of the Committee, though they are entitled to be present at its meetings. The offices of President, Vice-President and Secretary are distributed among the three Halls by rotation. Unlike the Hall Union where the Provost is president ex-officio, the President of the University Union is elected by the Committee.

With a view to fostering a wider intellectual fellowship, the Union organises each year a speech competition in which all the Colleges and Universities of the Province are invited to participate.

By participating in the debates the members of the Union are encouraged to think independently on all leading intellectual, social and political questions of the day ; and in this they are further stimulated by lectures from eminent persons whenever an opportunity arises. And by all this the teachers and the students are brought closer together. By acting as a great cementing force, the Union thus aims at the solidarity of the University as a whole.
